Outing Club

Each year a new group of freshmen come to Paul Smith's College awed by the beautiful St. Regis Mountain and Lake. If it was not for the expert guidance of the Outing Club during the fall this Freshman Orientation group might not have the chance to explore these productions of nature. The Outing Club members guide the freshmen to the top of the mountain safely and point out places of interest.

The Outing Club make their own trips, sometimes starting from the Lake on the shore of the campus to the other lakes making up the St. Regian chain. Also these outdoor men have been seen climbing Mt. Marcy only to ski down the long descent.

Earlier in the year a few members attended the Interstate Outing Club Association at Vassar College. They enjoyed the privilege of camping on the Vassar campus golf course.

As has been proved the Outing Club has been an invaluable contribution to Paul Smith's College.
