Tall and stately, with that distinctive look only knowledge and experience can bring, Dr. Chester L. Buxton is a familiar figure about the campus. A man of few but well chosen words, Dr. Buxton commands the respect of all those who know him.

As president of Paul Smith’s College, he dedicates many untiring hours to solve the continual problems a small college presents. Dr. Buxton is a symbol of determination—through his planning Paul Smith’s has taken great strides of advancement.
